next few days to induce ex-Governor Sulzer to get aboard the Hennessy band wagon and support his former chief lieutenant for Governor at the Democratic primaries.

chief lieutenant for Governor at the Democratic primaries.

Sulzer has aiready announced himself as the candidate of the American party, and he has steadfastly declared he intends to run on Election Day, no matter how few the votes he receives.

He will not take a chance at the Democratic primaries, however, and it is problematical whether he can get enough signatures to his petition to run at the Progressive primaries.

Overtures Are Begun.

Overtures are Begun.

It was understood yesterday that friends of Hennessy already had approached Sulzer on the subject of giving his support to the candidate of the Independent Democrats. It was pointed that he would prove much stronger with the people if he should keep out of the contest and tell the people he was interested in the breaking up of Tammany Hall and not in seeking office. Sulzer, it is understood, said he was going to run for Governor, regardless of any other programme.

Sulzer is understood said he was going to run for Governor, regardless of any other programme.

Sulzer is now upstate, making speeches at county fairs, and is not expected in town for another week. It is not improbable that he and Hennessey will have a heart-to-heart talk over the situation when he gets back.

Sees Danger in Sulzer.

Virtually all the Republican leaders will be in Saratoga to-day, ready to start the informal discussions regarding the strongest candidates for United States Senator and the state ticket. Although the question as to which of the three aspirants for the nomination for Governor will win in the primaries will still be open at the end of the convention, it is not unlikely that some idea may be formed as to how the contest is coming out.

Aside from this race, it is probable that the lenders will get together and reach some sort of an informal conclusion as to how the contest is coming out.

The independents make no secret of the fact that, in the event of Hennessy's victory at the primaries, Sulzer will prove a thorn if he persists in his determination to run for election.

Hennessy spent yesterday conferring with his political friends, and late in the afternoon made the significant from his Long Island home by the same more important.

Detective Barbieri was detailed to the case as soon as the robbery was reported. He rounded up three men yesterday afternoon at 12th st. and First av., and attempted to put them under arrest. One of the men struck him, and the detective knocked him down. When the others closed in on Barbieri he drew his revolver and commanded them to throw up their hands. When Mrs. Russo saw the three she declared they were her assailants.

At Police Headquarters the prisoners said they were Joseph La Bineo, of 178 Avenue A; Andrea Sfurtun, eighteen years old, no address, and Restivo Colagro, of 314 East 12th st. Detective Barbieri was detailed to

When a day out of Kingston the Zacapa observed a warship about three miles astern steaming for him at top speed. He crowded on all the steam his boilers could hold and was ready to outrun her if possible, when the chief officers observed that she was signaling to know the vessel's name. When the signal was answered the warship changed her course and put about. The skipper said he thought she was an Italian cruiser.
